News reached Anderson on Tuesday that Mr. Carson A. Young, who has been in the employ of Mr. C. A. Reed, in this city, in the capacity of a sewing machine agent for saveral years past, died in Greenville city on last Monday night. Mr. Young had been suffering from a severe case of jaundice, and left Anderson a few weeks ago to visit his brother in Greenville, thinking, perhaps, the change would be of benefit to his health. He was a clever, generous hearted man.

187 students were pursuing a course preparatory to entering the ministry within the Southern General Assembly.

On Saturday norming a memorial service was held in commemoration of the life and labors of Rev. George Howe, D. D., Revs. St. L. Watson, T. E. Davis and J. F. Gibert, who have died since the last meeting of the Synod.

Greenville was selected as the place and Wednesday evening before the fourth Sunday in October, 1884, at 7½ o'clock, as the

We are requested to announce that the installation of Rev. T. C. Ligon as paster of Roberts' Church has been appointed by Presbytery to take place on Saturday before the third Sabbath in November. The following ministers were appointed to conduct the services: Rev. Messrs. D. E. Frierson, H. C. Feinel and J. L. Martin. The Communion, which was to take place on the first Sabbath, is postponed until the third Sabbath. Preaching on the first Sabbath by the pastor elect.

Mr. Allison Langston, a highly respected citizen of this County, died at his residence, four miles Southeast of this city, on last Sunday morning, after an illness of about two months with dropsy, aged 66 years. For more than forty years he was a censistent member of Neal's Creek Baptist Church, and for the past twenty-five years a Deacon. Mr. Langston was one among the few survivors in this County of the Florida war. He was an upright, honorable gentleman, and his friends will regret to hear of his death. His remains were interred in the Neal's Greek Churchyard on last Monday in the presence of a large concourse of friends, Rev. W. H. King conducting the funeral services.

The cadets of the Anderson Military Academy have received their uniforms, which are quite pretty. On last Friday afternoon they had their first dress parade on the Court House Square, under command of Captain Foster Fant, who has been drilling them for several weeks past. We were agreeably surprised to see what progress the cadets have made in the short time they have been drilling. Some of the field movements, especially, were well executed. Quite a number of Indies turned out to witness the dress parade. The Young America Cornet Band furnished music during the parade. We say three cheers for the Anderson Military Academy! It is destined to become one of the most popular schools in the State.

Reminiscences by R. F. Perry, ex-Governor of South Carolina, is the title of a recent book of sketches of a number of public men by the distinguished author. The book is prefaced by a short sketch of the life of Gov. Perry by his son, Dr. Hext M. Perry, of Philadelphia, and is an exceedingly interesting volume, containing valuable sketches of the leading men of the author's time and acquaintance. Governor Perry is one of the most conspicuous and honorable of the historic characters of South Carolina. He stands out as a man actuated thoroughly by patriotic conviction of duty, which he has never sacrificed to personal success, and his life enriches the examples of Carolina's great men. His book will be of interest and value to every one who wishes to obtain a short sketch of South Carolina's leading men during the past fifty years, written by one who was intimately acquainted with them. The book will be found for sale by Messrs, G. W. Fant & Son, for seventy-five cents. It ought to meet a ready sale in this County.

Meeting of Synod.

Meeting of Synod.

The Synod of South Carolina convened in the Presbyterian Church in this city on Wednesday evening, the 24th ult., at halfpast severn o'clock. This body is composed of the ministers of the Presbyterian Church in South Carolina, and one elder from each church of that faith in the State. A full Synod would consist of about two hundred and eighty members, though the number in attendance is always much smaller. At the late meeting, which was near an average, forty-six ministers and thirty-six elders were present. The Synod is constituted differently from the General Assembly, which is composed of delegates chosen from the Presbyteries. The Synod comprises the bounds of Enoree, Bethel, Charleston, Harmony and South Carolina, and in certain matters of Church Government has the oversight of the churches and Presbyteries composing it. The meeting on Wednesday evening was called to order by Rev. J. S. Cozby, of Sumter, the Moderator of the last year, who preached the introductory sermon from the text contained in 1 Timothy, 5th chapter and 17th verse: "Let the elders that rule well be counted worthy of double honor, especially they who labor in the word and doctrine." The discourse was an interesting dissertation on the subject of Presbyterian Church Polity. At the conclusion of the introductory sermon, the Synod organized by electing Rev. J. B. Mack, D. D., Moderator, and Elder W. A. Templeton, of Abbeville, Assistant Clerk, Rev. T. H. Law, of Spartanburg, the stated Clerk, being present. The Synod of South Carolina convened

The reports of the Presbyteries, which The reports of the Presbyteries, which were received on Thursday, showed encouraging progress of the denomination within this State. There are now 176 churches, 107 ministers, and from 12,000 to 15,000 members in the five Presbyteries which constitute the Synod. Thursday afternoon was given to the meeting of Presbyteries, at which such business as necessarily came hefore these bodies was transacted. On Thursday evening the Synod was addressed by Rev. J. N. Craig, D. D., formerly of this State, but at present of Baltimore, Md., the Corresponding Secretary of the Executive Committee of the General Assembly on Home Missions. Dr. Craig is a good thinker and a strong speaker. He gave an instructive account of the Home Mission work—its destitutions and its success, its work—Its destitutions and its success, its wants, its ends and its possibilities. His remarks upon the duties of christians to support the ministry in their own midst, and send others to the destitute and care-and send others to the destitute and careless, were very practical and impressive.

The principal discussion of the session came up on the questions of Home Missions, Education, Foreign Missions and Evangelistic work. The greatest interest centered in the discussion of the proposition to appoint one or more Synodical Evangelists to labor within the bounds of the Synod, which was decided in the negative, the Synod holding that such appointment was exclusively the right of the Preshyteries. The constitutional right of the tive, the Synod holding that such appointment was exclusively the right of the Presbyteries. The constitutional right of the Synod to make these appointments was also discussed, but was not formally voted upon, though the decision of the proposition to appoint was considered an incidental expression of a regative upon the right. On Friday night a semi-Centennial meeting was held upon the subject of Foreign Missions. Interesting speeches were made by Revs. J. G. Law. J. Lowry Wilson, J. B. Mack, D. D., J. O. Lindsay, D. D., and J. L. Girardeau, D. D. Fifty years ago the Presbyterians of South Carolina began the Foreign Mission work by sending Dr. Wilson, (now Secretary of the Education Committee on Foreign Missions.) to Africa, and Rev. J. B. Adger, D. D., now of Pendleton, to Asia. The work has greatly grown since that time, and the denomination in the South now has many successful missions to heathen countries.

During the session of the Synod Revs. T. P. Bell, of the Baptist, and Rev. J. W. Walling, of the Methodist churches in this city, were introduced to the Synod and were invited to scate on the floor.

The synod adopted resolutions to extend the sprod had appointed Dr. Howe historian to complete the work to the Presbyterian church in South Carolina. The Synod adopted a resolution riging the Presbyteries to adopt some means by which a better on the time, which committee in to the the work, and in presented a resolution riging the Presbyteries to adopt some means by which a better and more uniform system of family woratier of the Synod was prevented from a tendent on the first on Sturdys morning Rev. Greenville was selected as the place and Wednesday evening before the fourth Sunday in October, 1884, at 74 o'clock, as the time of the next meeting.

At 1 o'clock on Saturday the Synod, having completed its business, adjourned. Throughout the session was harmonious and pleasant. The body was composed of able and earnest men. Their sojourn in our midst was a pleasure to our people, who enjoyed the opportunity of having them here.

The pulpits of the different churches of the city were filled on Sunday by the following appointments:

In the Presbyterian Church in the morning Rev. J. B. Mack, D. D., preached a most excellent sermon to a large congregation. The Communion was administered at the conclusion of this service by Rev. Mr. McKay. In the afternoon a Sunday School mass meeting was addressed by Rev. R. A. Lapsley and Rev. J. N. Craig, D. D., and at night Rev. T. L. Webb, one of the rising young ministers of the Synod, preached an able sermon.

In the Baptist Church Rev. Mr. Jordan, of Winnsboro, preached a sermon which was highly appreciated by that congregation.

In the Methodist Church Rev. L. Communication.

Wilson preached an exceedingly fine sermon.

Rev. J. R. Dow, of the Charleston Presbytery, preached in the colored Methodist Church. He is a man who has manifested great interest in the religious wants of this people, and his hearers were greatly pleased on Sunday with his discourse.

The last of the representatives of the Synod left on Monday, carrying with them the regard and esteem of our people, who will be pleased to greet them in our midst again as soon as they be willing to return.

Wm. M. Wakefield.

Wm. M. Wakefield.

This estimable gentleman, who had many friends and relatives in this his mattive County, died recently at his home in Ninety Six, from the effects of typhoid fever. He was born in this County December 10, 1818, and was a son of the late Conrad Wakefield. His father, for a number of years, resided at Antreville, in Abbeville County, and he began his education there. Mr. Wakefield went to Erskine College for a term after the war, and in 1869 entered Furman University at Greenville. He was studious and bright in his studies; tocial and agreeable in his disposition, he was a favorite with his fellow-students. He remained at Furman University for two years, and shortly after leaving that institution he married Miss Andrews, of Edgefield County, who died four years afterwards, leaving him three children, one of whom is still living. In 1878 Mr. Wakefield moved to Ninety Six, where has since resided, conducting a drug store. In 1881 he was married to Miss Tulle Roberts, of Ninety Six, the only child of which marriage, a little boy, died of the fever a few days before his father. Mr. Wakefield was a successful man in business, although he began upon a small capital. He was a member of the Bajatist Church and a valuable citizen, whose death is regretted by all who knew him.

MR. EDITOR: Pursuant to the notice giv Mr. Editor: Pursuant to the notice given last week, there assembled at Flat Rock Church on last Saturday a large crowd, with well filled lunch baskets. About 11 o'clock the meeting was called together by Mr. J. A. Hall, the Superintendent, who, after singing by the school, introduced to the audience Columbus Wardlaw, Esq., who spoke on the subject of teaching in Sunday Schools, drawing a very marked distinctic between teaching and simply asking questions and receiving the answers thereto. Mr. L. P. Smith was next introduced and made a very touching and appropriate address on our duty one to another.

Then came Mr. Superintendent's speech on the subject of 'dinner,' which, he said, would be short. We soon learned it was his speech and not the dinner that was short. The dinner was ample, both in quantity and quality.

After recess Prof. McLees gave a very pleasant and interesting lesson in singing. The people were then led in prayer by Mr. Grief Tate, after which they adjourned, feeling amply paid for all trouble and inconvenience.
